

Howdy, friends and colleagues!

Shouting at you from the rooftops that I have TWO Rehabilitation Counselor positions in Durham, North Carolina! We have it all - jobs for clients, diversity, strong community resources, music/arts/entertainment, food (goodness do we have food), beverages, and our best asset: amazing staff.

I suppose I steer the ship as the unit manager, but I have a SOLID team of folks who are, quite frankly, the wind beneath my wings . We have multilingual staff, disabled staff, LGBTQIA+ staff, multigenerational staff, caring, educated, boundary-setting, push the limits, creative out of the box thinking staff... basically if you want to like the folks you work with and you want a supervisor that wants to see you succeed (and have fun while doing it), then I've got the job for you.

Warning: we are sarcastic, we have full conversations in memes/gifs, and we love to EAT. We might cuss a little, too

Caseload size currently averages 60. You will share an administrative support person with one other counselor. There are three (uhhh-mazing) supervisors on the team ready to guide you Telework? We gotchu. Flexible scheduling (within reason, we're still state VR ), okay! PAID MATERNITY LEAVE? Just gotta work a full year first!

Have I piqued your interest yet, hmmm?

Want to learn more? Shoot me a message and we can talk details Have a unique approach to rehab counseling? I want to hear it! We are accepting trainee applications as well so if you're still in grad school or have been accepted to a graduate program, you can apply! You will be considered for both openings if you apply via the link below

68 likes and loves, 22 comments

"This is the best job advertisement I have seen in years! Makes me want to apply and move to NC, but I am not. Good luck in your search!"

"You almost make me want to come out of retirement! May you and your team continue to enjoy your work and one another. It's very special when a good group comes together."

"It's definitely about being in a position to move...awesome posting. I was offered a position in NC but the cost of living was so different than MI that it didn't make sense due to no paid moving expenses. "

"Just joining in on the chorus of loving your post! I am a district office manager for state VR in NY. I love where I work and the people I work with... And even though We are also recruiting, I want to tell anybody interested to head down south for a 60 person caseload and a chance to work in your unit! I wish you all the best in your recruitment. Excellent post."